William J. Burns, who was the first president of the Termagami Company and who said his business was principally incorporating companies, told of the incorporation of the Termagami Company in Boston. He had a room next to the office of ex-Mayor Quincy in State street, that city, and there was a connecting door. Mr. Quincy got him to incorporate the company. He had organized four or five other companies for Mr. Quincy, he said. He furnished several directors for the company, who were paid by him $25 each for attending two meetings. At the second meeting Julian Hawthorne was elected a director and at the same meeting, according to a record in the minute book of the company, Dr. Morton "donated" $1,000,000 of stock for the treasury of the company and was to get the first $14,000 obtained from the sale of the stock.

The trial will be continued to-day.

Judge Hough announced that he intends to sit from 10 in the morning until 6 in the evening and that he will hold a half day session on Saturday.

CAR SHORTAGE HURTS STEEL. Mills Unable to Deliver Finished

The car shortage is rapidly becoming a serious factor in the steel and iron industry. Some of the mills complain that they are unable to deliver their finished products according to contract, which is adding to the general confusion and help-ing to retard the business. Bookings have been particularly heavy for some time, and with the poor shipping facilities available the mills are working under additional handicap. So far traffic men in the Pitts-75 burg district have been unable to get any satisfaction from railroad officers, but as the railroads will suffer to a large extent in the event of steel deliveries being held up it is believed that something will be done n the near future to relieve the congestion

All of the various branches of the industry continue to report good business. New orders are still coming in in large volume and the books of a number of the smaller companies have been closed for the first quarter of the coming year. All indica-tions point to new production records for 1913, and unless new business becomes lighter practically all of the mills will be ooked ahead for the first half of next ply is small. Consumers are endeavoring to hold down prices, but it is thought that $33 is unusually active. A prominent buyer "The one thing that is holding business recently contracted for 50,000 tons of bes
